

- This is a story of a boy found an empty notebook in his way back home from school and there was some instruction written on it on the last page of it but in a different language.
- He didn't understand the language written on that notebook but he was curious about it.
- Then he started searching for the language written in it, but he was unsuccessful.
- So he started using it as a diary and started writing his own imagination.
- But after some time he started noticing things that some of the thing he had written is started turning into reality.
- In the initial days he thought that it's all just a coincidence.
- But later he realized almost all the things he had written in notebook are happening in reality.
- And all these things started triggering his evil mind.
- And that's how a villain is born.